

JOHNSON WINS IN MICHIGAN

California Best Lowden, Wood and Hoover for Presidential Nomination—Edwards Leading Hoover in Democratic Race With McAdoo, Palmer and Bryan Trailing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Detroit, Mich., April 6.—Hiram Johnson has won the Republican presidential nomination in Michigan by a large plurality over Lowden, Wood and Hoover. In 1,165 precincts out of 2,421 in the state already counted, the Californian is leading by 44,303 votes over Leonard Wood, his closest opponent.

Johnson swept the city of Detroit clean. Here he beat Wood by more than four votes to one. His majority over Wood in the 219 precincts of the city proper was 52,861. This gave him a lead that Wood is not expected to approach by 30,000 in other parts of the state. Wood's lead in 846 precincts outside of Detroit was less than 10,000 votes.

Governor Lowden was trailing 30,000 votes behind Wood when half of the state had been counted. Hoover was bringing up in the rear. The vote in 1,165 precincts, including Detroit complete, was as follows: Johnson, 103,786; Wood, 59,482; Lowden, 33,298; Hoover, 29,782. The complete vote in Detroit's 219 precincts follows: Johnson, 69,004; Wood, 16,142; Hoover, 12,558; Lowden, 11,009; Pershing, 2,779.

In 846 precincts outside of Detroit the vote was: Wood, 43,340; Johnson, 34,782; Lowden, 22,289; Hoover, 17,224.

This includes a large slice of the upper peninsula, which was Wood's one redoubtable stronghold. In other parts of the state Johnson was running neck and neck with his chief opponent.

Congressman Louis Crampton, Johnson's state manager, stated this morning that Johnson's majority over Wood in the whole state would be close to 30,000 votes.

Governor Edwards of New Jersey led Hoover by such a wide margin in the city of Detroit that there is a possibility that he may have won the whole state. The latest figures in the Democratic race follows:

Edwards, 7,142; Hoover, 4,377.

McAdoo, Palmer and Bryan are trailing far behind in that order. Early returns indicated that Bryan was running second but he soon lost his lead.

PRODUCERS NOT SALESMEN NEEDED

General Manager of Germany's Greatest Electrical Concerns Says Supply of Industrial Products in World Will Not Equal Demand for 25 Years—Will Be No International Competition.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, April 6.—The demand for industrial products will so far exceed the supply during the next quarter of a century that salesmanship during that period will be a lost art, according to a prediction made today by General Manager Felix Deutsch, of the Allgemeine Elektricitäts-Gesellschaft (The General Electric Company of Germany), the largest organization of its kind in the world.

Geheimrat Deutsch believes that international industrial competition will be a dead letter for many years to come. Furthermore, he thinks that the United States has nothing to fear from immigration from Europe because the European countries lost so many workmen in the war they cannot spare any more.

The statements of the German industrial magnate were especially interesting because of the competition methods by the A. E. G. (Allgemeine Elektricitäts-Gesellschaft) before the war when nothing was allowed to stand in the way of new business. The A. E. G. was not an absolute German firm, for it had ramifications in Russia, Italy, Spain and Switzerland.

"For six years there has been no production on a large scale of peace time commodities," said Geheimrat Deutsch. "The result is that the surplus stocks have been completely used up. There is no difficulty today in finding a buyer for any useful product the world can produce."

Before the war the supply was greater than the demand, leading to vigorous competition that put a premium on salesmanship. Today the exact opposite is the case. I believe that the demand will exceed the supply for the next 25 years. The world has lost from productive labor about 20,000,000 men in killed and wounded. Even those men who remain are not turning what they produced in 1914. From a 10 hour day they have gone to an 8 and 7 hour day which cuts down production. And, hour for hour, they are not yet producing as they did before the war, because their muscles and bodies, after five years in the field, are not coordinated to peace time labor.

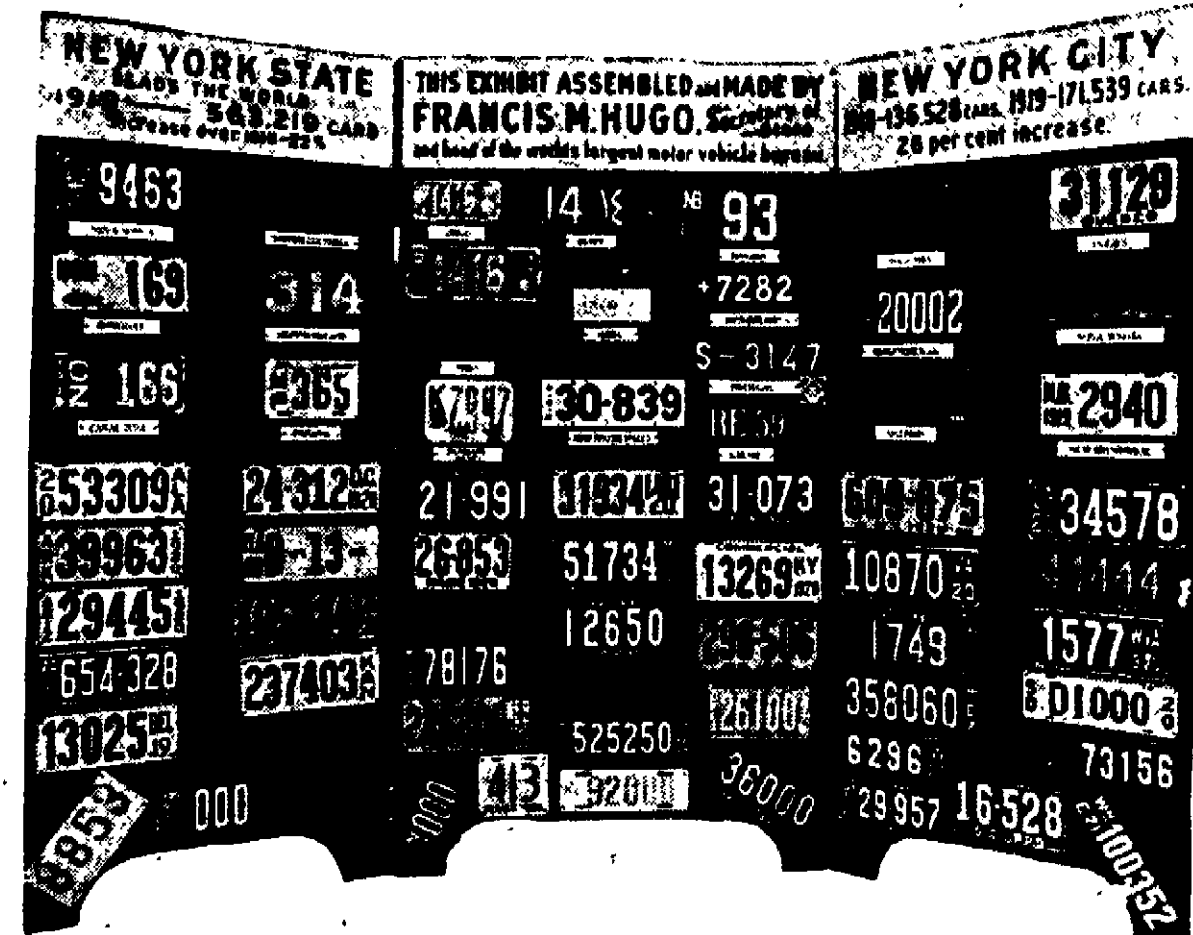

"There has been a good deal said about immigration from Europe. I do not believe that the United States has anything to fear from an influx of Europeans. England, France, Germany, Austria and Italy have suffered so heavily in lost manpower that they cannot afford to allow a single workman to leave their countries."

"You can see from the conditions I have described, the world does not need salesmen. It needs producers. For a quarter of a century the world 'sale' will be dead. It will be replaced by the world 'produce'. About 10,000 to 20,000 letters are received daily in our Berlin office alone. Most of these letters contain orders. These orders are to replace equipment worn out and unreplaceable during the war, or equipment either destroyed by the war or converted to war use. We can fill only a small portion of these orders. We require no sales force. We need only some one to make a selection between orders we shall fill and those we cannot."

"Every few days a committee of business men from the recent enemy countries come to me with large orders or proposals for business combinations. They are still thinking with 'pre-war minds'. They do not realize that the methods of competition and combination of 1914 have no place in the situation today."

"Military and politicians are still talking international competition. But I am sure that, within six months, when the world realizes that there are a dozen purchasers for each article available, the politicians will realize that the world's one need today is production."

LICENSE PLATE EXHIBIT AT KINGSTON AUTOMOBILE SHOW THIS WEEK.

In connection with the Kingston automobile show Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Secretary of State Hugo's office is furnishing a novel and interesting exhibit of automobile license plates, the first of its kind ever made. The collection contains not only the 1920 plates from the various states of the union but also plates are being shown from a score or more foreign countries. The exhibit has attracted a great deal of attention wherever shown.

Mr. Hugo's office has been making the collection for several months, and in fact it was started last summer when letters were sent to Ford and Packard agents in every country under the sun, asking them to furnish a plate from their respective countries.

Some of the plates were two and three months in making the trip. In fact, a set of New Zealand plates were received only last week and are not included in the collection which will be seen in Kingston.

Among the foreign plates are those from the Fiji Islands, Iceland, Portugal, Switzerland, Chile, Peru, Brazil, Java, New South Wales, China, Japan, Egypt, Havana, the Philippines, Denmark, Honolulu, the Canal Zone, Uruguay and Mexico.

Some of the plates are extremely crude in design, especially those of Peru and Java. One of the handsomest plates among those from foreign countries is that of Egypt, in its red, black and white coloring and covered with hieroglyphics characteristic of the Nile region.

The plate from Denmark is off one of the royal cars and is being loaned Mr. Hugo only during the automobile show period and will be returned within the next month or so. The Chinese plate is quite a bit smaller than those used by automobilists in this country and is a blue and white combination and very well made. The Japanese plates are of black and white and easily distinguishable from the Japanese characters in front of the numerals.

The plates from Chile are of aluminum. The plate from Honolulu in addition to the numbers has a small black tag in the lower left-hand corner supposed to represent the "alua," a fish for which the mid-

Pacific island is famous.

Iceland's plate is a small affair, coming from Reykjavik and is without any apparent means of fastening to the car. The plate from the Fiji Islands, a black background with large white numerals, crude in its design, is nevertheless of a size that could be spotted by a traffic cop, if there are any such mortals in the South Sea Isles, a mile away.

South Africa has contributed a rather interesting plate that was only received two or three weeks ago and was not included in the collection when it was first shown at the Broadway show, and later on, in Philadelphia.

One of the prettiest plates is that which is being used in the Philippine Islands, and which occupies a prominent place on the left hand wing of the large screen on which the plates have been mounted.

Across the top of the exhibit, Mr. Hugo informs the public as to the number of cars in New York state last year, the percentage of increase over the registration of 1918, while similar information is also given in regard to the country in which the exhibit is being made.

SEEKS PROBE OF BRAMMAN CHARGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., April 6.—Senator Loring M. Black, Jr., of Brooklyn, tomorrow will ask the legislature to investigate charges of Dwight Bramman, president of the Law and Order Union, that there is a powerful lobby back of the bill repealing the state daylight saving law.

The measure has already been defeated twice in the assembly, after having been passed by the senate, and another attempt is to be made this week to repeal the law and restore the state to standard time.

BRIDGE CONTRACT STILL UP IN AIR

The State Highway Department still maintains a profound silence regarding the Rondout creek bridge, the right of way for which was procured by the Ulster County Board of Supervisors a week ago at a special session called to meet the urgent demand made by Commanchee Greener, who gave assurance that this right of way was the only thing that stood in the way of building the bridge.

STEAMER MARTIN NEWBURGH BOUND

The old Milton Martin, of the Central-Hudson fleet, which was sold last fall to the same junk dealers who bought the Mary Powell, will be taken to Newburgh in the tow Wednesday. The Martin has been spending the winter in the old Mary Powell berth off Port Ewen. The Cornell Steamboat Company was asked today to take the old steamer down in the tow.

The Martin in her day was one of the best known of the Hudson river boats. During the Civil War she was used as General Grant's dispatch boat on the Chesapeake and did much active service carrying messages and troops across the river and bay. She was built in 1862, two years after the launching of the Mary Powell, which was placed in service in 1862. The Martin was launched shortly after the Civil War broke out and was immediately pressed into service under General Grant. She is a side wheeler and has a wooden bottom.

The Mary Powell is still berthed in the Rondout creek at the Sunflower dock, and the Cornell line has received no word as yet as to placing her in a tow. The Hart left here this morning with the first tow out of Kingston for the season. The tow was made up of loaded ice barges, and some of the boxes built and launched during the past winter at the local boat-yards.

CHARITY BOARD MET ON MONDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the commissioners of charity was held Monday at the City Home with Commissioners Waterbury and Osterhout present. Commissioner Stock, who had a heavy cold, did not venture out on account of the inclement weather. The two city physicians, Dr. W. D. Hasbrouck and Dr. Frederick Hubbs, who have been paid an annual salary of $500, received an increase of $100, and will now each receive $600 a year for looking after the charity cases.

Superintendent Edmonston, who is also secretary of the board, submitted the following reports:

Balance on hand at last report $3,113 41
Deposited with city treasurer March 31 106 60

Bills audited this date 2,235 01
This is but a small part of the balance due the board from the city treasury.

There are 40 inmates at the City Home.

The Kingston City Hospital report for March showed 29 cases with 232 days' treatment.

ON THEIR OWN FEET.

Results of the decision made by the Salvation Army to stand on its own feet in the matter of raising funds in Kingston will be viewed with great interest and some sympathy. A gentleman professing to speak for the industrial workers stated at a recent committee meeting that the workers were unanimous for aiding the Salvation Army and that this organization was one of only three objects to which they would contribute, the other two never having been considered as part of the proposed Community Chest. There is now an opportunity to make good this assertion, unhampered by association with any of the "causes" that the industrial workers do not care to support, but which they could not avoid supporting if they contributed to a Community Chest, no matter if they did designate for whom their contributions were intended.

In view of the attitude taken by the Community Chest promoters to eliminate all building funds, it is difficult to see what other course the Salvation Army could have taken, as the purpose for which they propose to use the greater part of the funds they ask is extension and repair of their present quarters. Regardless of opinion as to the need they may exist or the necessity for Salvation Army work in Kingston, the course of the Salvation Army in coming out squarely on the issue is most commendable. Their plea is before the people on its own merits, without weakening or adding strength to the pleas of others less or more worthy, or being weakened or strengthened by the needs of others, and unclouded by any flim-flam claims that those who contribute to a Community Chest can effectively designate the object to which their contributions shall go.

THE EX-KAISER'S WEALTH.

There is an absurd and futile effort to show that the former Kaiser could not have contributed to the costs of the Kapp insurrection because he is a "very poor man." When he fled to Holland it was said that he carried with him $5,000,000 in gold and treasures and had heavy bank deposits in foreign countries. It would be easy to deny this, but this is not all. Disclosures recently made in the Prussian parliament show that the former Kaiser still has holdings which make him enormously wealthy. It appears that when he fled to Holland the Prussian government took possession of the royal property and appointed an administrator over it. The German public learned that a settlement was made with the former emperor through agreement reached between him and the Junker leaders in charge of his property, but the details did not come out until the bill went before parliament.

Of the agreement and bill we read: "The former monarch, according to this settlement, was to receive yearly what in normal times would amount to $25,000,000. Furthermore by the bill presented to the Prussian parliament he was to retain all the most valuable portions of his real estate, including 82 villas and houses in Berlin, Potsdam and Kiel, and all his castles and forests in different parts of the country. Added to the real estate was the royal fortune in strong boxes, consisting of gold, industrial mortgages and 'very few war bonds.' This bill is expected to pass the Prussian parliament with the 'possible exception' of the $25,000,000 yearly allowance, against which a debt-burdened nation is protesting. Nevertheless it is made clear that the former Kaiser is still 'by millions' the richest man in all Germany and can command ample funds for any purpose he may have in view. The news that his vast property has not been confiscated shows that Germany is still impartial in real service.

Governor Smith's swing around the circle was an awful disappointment. He saw that the conditions here to which up-state Democrats and Tammany Hall has been drawn together since war, and that there was not a ghost of a chance to appear there.

so that a Tammany Democrat on the state ticket next fall would have a "look in." Those who knew any that up-state is more disgusted than ever with Tammany methods. A blind man could see this coming within two weeks after the governor had been inaugurated.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

American (discovering Europe)—"Say, where are we now?"
Chaufeur—"Just running into America, sir."
American—"Cut details. What country?"—London Opinion.

"What is your idea of a real diplomat?" asked the old fogey.
A real diplomat is a man who always remembers a woman's birthday and always forgets her age," replied the disingenuous one.

She—"Oh, I've spent such a delightful evening!"
He (absently)—"Yes, and about my month's salary."

Mrs. Nixdore—"My daughter plays the piano. Perhaps you've heard her."

Mrs. Newcome (with great self-restraint)—"I've heard the piano."

Mrs. Nixdore—"Yes, my daughter Mary is very musical."

Mrs. Nixdore—"Ah! You have two daughters, then?"

The Old Hen—"My goodness, but you've grown. Why, I remember when you were only a little brown egg."

Still Better.

The Noisy Guest.

William Jennings Bryan said at his brother's house in Lincoln:

"It is splendid to see the good order that now prevails at political banquets. There was considerable drunkenness at these banquets in the past."

"At a political banquet one evening the chairman said to a rather noisy guest:

"Excuse me, sir, but may I ask your name?"

"Morgan's me—hic—name," the guest answered.

"I mean your full name," said the chairman.

"The guest hiccupped again.

"It just the same," he said, 'full or sober.'"

"Bringing Up Father" Tonight—

"Should a Woman Tell" at Keene's.

Alice Lake, the new-delight metro star, will be the attraction at Keene's tonight and tomorrow in

"Should a Woman Tell," a tense, human and infinitely appealing story of a woman confronted with one of life's greatest dilemmas. Coming for three days starting Thursday the great super-special, "The Miracle Man."

Ethel Clayton in "A Sporting Chance" at the Auditorium tonight offers a story well told and more interesting because of the popularity of this anguished star. It's a story of a society "bad" and an escaped convict (played by Jack Holt) and all started when he asked her to hide him from the police and her answer was "I'll take 'A Sporting Chance.'"

A Hearst News weekly and cartoon comic reel are added features. Tomorrow Marion Davies in "The Belle of New York."

"Bringing Up Father."

"Have you heard of the notorious spoon?" Surely one exists. If not let us remind you that such an essential device has been invented by this time. At any rate the whole idea is humorously and expeditiously explained in "Bringing Up Father," the big laughing riot which is to be the attraction at the Kingston Opera House tonight at 8:15. This is the play based on the famous cartoons of George McManus, which Gus Hill, with his noted managerial acumen and foresight brought to the stage seasons ago. This year the popular comedy will be conspicuous in a brand new three act musical comedy entitled, "Bringing Up Father at the Posthouse."

The Opera House tomorrow will offer Anita Stewart and Earl Williams in "The Juggernaut," and commencing Thursday an exceptional vaudeville entertainment and feature photographs.

ARGUMENTS IN ASSESSMENT CASE

Van Etten Claimed Referee Erred Greatly in Finding As To West Shore Land Valuation—Outlets Boards and Division.

The application of Corporation Counsel Brinnier to confirm the report of Referee McClellan in the certification proceeding brought by the New York Central Railroad Company to review the assessment of the West Shore and Wallkill Valley Railroad properties by Assessor Block in 1915 resulted in an animated discussion before Judge Hasbrouck at special term on Saturday. Mr. Brinnier presented the report of the referee, asked for its confirmation, for an additional allowance by way of costs.

Amos Van Etten, who appeared for the Central, objected to the confirmation of the report, and claimed that the referee had grossly erred in making it. He said that the referee found as a finding of fact that the land and buildings of the railroad, exclusive of special franchises, was $173,672, and that this finding was not justified by the evidence for the reason that Mayor Canfield acting for the city had stipulated that the value of the land of the railroad company was $25,000, which was the value fixed by Assessor Block, and accepted by the railroad.

Judge Clearwater, who appeared for the Ulster and Delaware, said that that company was not a party to any such stipulation, if any had been made; that upon the contrary when the mayor and Mr. Van Etten were discussing that question he had definitely and explicitly stated that the Ulster and Delaware would not accept a land valuation for the Central of $25,000, but that it would produce and did produce and introduce in evidence the deeds showing a much greater land value; that the referee, therefore, was not bound by any agreement between Mr. Van Etten and Mayor Canfield, assuming that one was made, but was at liberty to find, as he did find, that the land values were greater than $25,000.

Mr. Brinnier said that Mr. McClellan, with counsel in the case, had made a physical examination of the properties of the West Shore, Wallkill Valley and Ulster and Delaware, and that therefore was at liberty to place his own construction upon their value.

Mr. Van Etten replied that there was no statement in the referee's report that his opinion of value was at all predicated upon his physical inspection, and therefore should be no legal assumption that the physical inspection played any part in his determination. Also Mr. Van Etten objected to the confirmation of the report upon the ground that the referee erred in excluding testimony offered by the Central to show that concrete construction of the piers of the bridge over the Rondout could replace the present stone piers at a greatly lessened cost, and claimed that the door had been opened by the city's cross-examination to the introduction of that proof, which the referee excluded upon the city's objection.

Judge Clearwater said that the legal rule as to the assessment of railroad structures was the cost of reproducing the assessed property in the taxing district, making due allowance for depreciation caused by use and the age of the structure, and that therefore evidence of the cost or value of a substituted structure was irrelevant.

An amusing incident of the argument was Mr. Van Etten's statement to Judge Hasbrouck that the referee himself would admit that he had erred in his estimate of the value of the Central's property.

"Did he tell you so?" asked Judge Clearwater.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Brinnier. "Mr. Van Etten undertakes to read the referee's mind."

"Ah, well," said Judge Clearwater, "this is a psychic period. Many gentlemen reach conclusion by ouija and divination."

Judge Hasbrouck took the papers and reserved his decision.

NOTHING GAINED

For French by Occupation, Says Daily Express.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, April 6.—The Daily Express took the view today that France cannot safeguard the German coal mines in the Ruhr district by the occupation of Frankfurt, Darmstadt, Hanau and Homburg. In its comment upon the French decision, the Daily Express said:

"The towns which France wishes to occupy are seventy miles from the Ruhr district proper. Nothing could be gained by their occupation. The coal mines in the Ruhr fields cannot be protected by occupying towns outside of the district."

Inquiries at Italian sources in Paris indicate that Rome will remain aloof upon the question of French occupation of Frankfurt, Darmstadt, Hanau and Homburg, according to a Paris dispatch to the Daily Express.

GOT THE "KICK"

And So Did Other Towns When Calumet's Shovel Let Go.

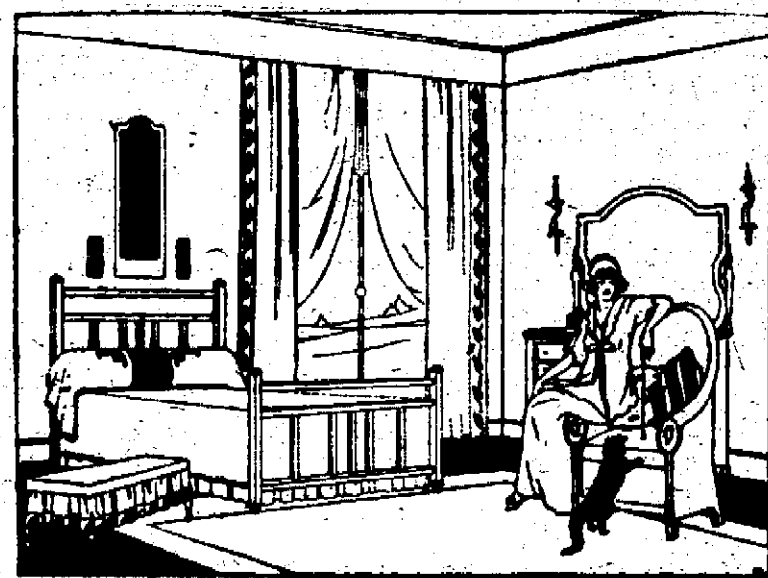

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, April 6.—John Calumet, first dealer, wanted to be very sure there was a "kick" in the barrel of home made wine he had fermenting to his cellar. So he slipped a few raisins through the bung hole and jammed the bung in tight to prevent gas escaping.

The lower part of the five story tenement where Calumet had his wine stored is to rot away. It was wrecked when the wine decided to demonstrate the power of its "kick" and erupted with a roar that threw the neighborhood into a panic.

The police declare a black band burst could not have been more thorough in its destruction.

Gifts to Children

Teach them to make their own Jiffy-Jell desserts and serve in dainty ways. See offers below.

Made with Style—E Mold

To Every Child

Serve this week a real-fruit dessert

They revel in it. Five times the cost can serve them nothing half-way so appealing.

It means real fruit—a wealth of it; the fruit that children need. Accept these offers this week—let them know Jiffy-Jell.

Crushed fruit in it

Jiffy-Jell is the new-style quick gelatine dessert which millions have adopted.

The fruit is not a mere flavor. Each package contains a bottle of liquid fruit-juice essence.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it. It makes Jiffy-Jell a real-fruit dainty, rich in fruit.

We crush half a pineapple in Hawaii—fruit too ripe to ship—to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. So with all fruits—the fruit essence is abundant.

Less than apples cost

Yet Jiffy-Jell, with its rich, rare fruits, costs less than apples cost.

It comes ready-sweetened. It comes acidulated with lemon or grape acid. The fruit essence comes in a vial. Simply add water and a package will serve six in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jelly.

No other fruit-made dainty costs so little or is so inviting.

Try pineapple flavor and loganberry. Try lime-fruit flavor for a tart, green salad jelly. Try mint for a mint jelly to serve with meats.

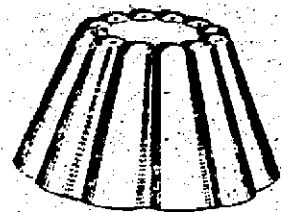

Let the girl make it—teach her housekeeping. Then use the trade-marks to get molds, cups, spoons, etc. Teach them dainty ways of serving.

Buy enough Jiffy-Jell to get the molds you want. Then watch how the children enjoy it. See how it changes your dinners. Don't let your children longer miss what millions of children get.

Children of Plains Sing to Accompaniment of Dinner Bells Swung by Baptist Missionary

This Swiss bell singer isn't an itinerant vaudeville artist, even though the youngsters are so immensely interested. He is a Baptist cooperator missionary and is playing Gospel Hymns on his clanging bells. The school house is away off on a Colorado ranch and the children are singing glad to see "Daddy" Hooper. As part of the New World Movement of the Northern Baptists for which a $100,000,000 drive will be staged April 25 to May 2, many more co-operators will be sent out to serve the greatly neglected areas of the United States.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT CHARITY BALL

A delightful evening was spent by the hundreds of people who attended the big charity ball at the armory, given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Sanitarium Monday night. None enjoyed it all more than the committee, of which Mrs. Frank Eastman was chairman, who arranged in all its details the ball, for it was such a success in every way.

The armory was decorated with American flags and low-hanging festoons of purple and violet streamers, while the booths and musicians' stands along the sides of the armory added much to the picturesque of the affair. The flower and cigar booth had as its color scheme, that of the general decorations, purple and white, while the luncheonette booth, presided over by the Benedictine nurses in uniform was prettily decorated in shades of yellow, with baskets of flowers to adorn it. Palma decorated the musicians' stand, and in the refreshment room, table decorations of spring flowers adorned each table.

The evening's program opened with an orchestral number, a march by Joseph Smith, admirably played by the Musicians' Union, with Curt Shurtler conducting. That and the next number, "Light Cavalry" by Suppe, were fully appreciated by the large audience which applauded generously. In fact throughout the evening the music was just what the ladies had promised it would be, the very best.

An unusual number for Kingston audiences was the trombone solo, "The Palms," by Faure, beautifully played by Harry L. Place, who graciously responded to the continued applause with an equally pleasing encore number.

Selections were then given by the singing violinist, Miss Mayflower Deasey, who appeared in a gown of pale blue with cloth of gold. This was a decided novelty number, and Miss Deasey also gave an encore selection.

The orchestra then favored the audience with selections from Herbert's "The Velvet Lady," which also received its full share of applause. One of the most delightful numbers of the evening's program was the "Eccentric Dance," given by Miss Helen McNeil and Miss Katherine Kearney, whose graceful and artistic dancing was, as it so well deserved, applauded to the echo. The vivid pink of Miss Kearney's costume and the equally vivid blue of Miss McNeil's so harmonized as to make of the dancing a most charming color as well as motion picture, and the young ladies were obliged to repeat the number.

The next excellent orchestral number was "Dardanella," after which the singing violinist reappeared and gave two popular numbers, this time wearing a costume whose color tones harmonized with the copper colored metallic embroidery of the creation.

The closing number on the program and the most beautiful in the very nature of things, was the exquisite Greek Interpretative Dance, "Humoresque," given by Miss Kearney, who appeared in Greek draperies of chiffon cloth of varying soft shades of pink. This dance was the very poetry of motion as given by Miss Kearney, whose interpretation of these aesthetic dances is always a delight and whose modest grace and utter lack of self-consciousness, because of her deep interest in the art of her dancing, is most refreshing. The audience insisted on a repetition of the number, after Miss Kearney had been presented with a beautiful bouquet of spring-tinted flowers.

During the general dancing which followed the program the many beautiful as well as dainty gowns and frocks of the women, and the joyous spirit of the entire gathering made it one to be long remembered.

The part that fine steels play in a MAXWELL

There is a definite reason for the brilliant performance of a Maxwell car.

Lift the bonnet and you see the simplest of engines. Examine clutch and gears, and you see supreme simplicity.

The definite reason for Maxwell performance and endurance is the fine steels, those steels built to Maxwell's own formulas, that combine quality and rare strength, that defy time and the repairman.

This is the story of the Maxwell, the real cause for brilliant performance and long endurance. These steels do not burden the engine. They make its tasks easier. They flatten out a hill for the engine.

The combination of light weight and great strength—the ideal of Maxwell construction—is thus achieved.

And to obtain that rare combination of strength with quality means costly steels. So you will find that, pound for pound, the steels in a Maxwell equal those in any car built.

That is why the rise of Maxwell has been so marked; why nearly 400,000 have been built; why 100,000 are being constructed this year; why these will fill but 60% of the demand.

NOTED JEWS TO SPEAK SUNDAY

The Jewish people of the town are enthusiastically awaiting the eventful evening of Sunday, April 11. Beginning at 7:30 on that evening a most noted gathering will take place at the synagogue Agudas Achim on West Union street.

The audience will be addressed by Mayor Canfield and Hon. Judge Hancourt. Two distinguished rabbis will be sent here from New York city to address the meeting. Rev. Dr. L. I. Newman, the associate rabbi of Dr. Stephen Weiss, of the Free Synagogue, will be one of them, and Chief Rabbi Yudelovitch, one of the most noted Jewish scholars in the United States, will speak to the audience in Yiddish. Rabbi Louis Bray, of Temple Emanuel, will also deliver an address.

Great enthusiasm has been created all over the United States for the Palestine Restoration Fund. Ten million dollars are to be raised for the purpose of buying large tracts of land in Palestine and colonize there Jews from the pogrom-ridden lands. This project has the support of the most distinguished statesmen in the United States and England, and it has the hearty co-operation of many distinguished clergymen of all denominations. Secretary Baker, Secretary Daniels, Hon. W. C. McAdoo, Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Burch, of the Episcopal Church of New York, and many others whose names are too numerous to mention, are fervently advocating this cause.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, April 5.—A business meeting of the Epworth League was held at the home of Supervisor and Mrs. John T. Beaver on Friday evening of last week notwithstanding the unpleasant state of the weather. A goodly number assembled at the stated hour. As the president, A. P. Ganoung, was prevented from attending by a severe cold, the first vice president, Harlowe McLean, was also absent, as he now has a position in the Moline Plow Works in Poughkeepsie and is unable to return home at night on account of the lateness of the train by the old time. Ralph Beaver, secretary, was appointed treasurer pro tem and the dues collected as usual. Reports were given by some of the vice presidents. Second Vice President Mrs. Fred Martin reported five dollars collected and sent to Rev. Edwin T. Iglehart, New York conference missionary in Tokyo, Japan. Fourth Vice President Miss Hazel Mott asked for an expression of the league in regard to having a supper for the benefit of the church, and a unanimous vote was given in favor of the same. At the close of the business hour most delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her husband and son, Ralph. Then after some time spent in conversation, interspersed with music, the guests departed, declaring the evening a very enjoyable one.

A good sized congregation greeted Rev. G. W. Budd both morning and evening. Sunday, April 4. The Easter sermon was given in the evening and was listened to with interest by those present. The text was a brief one, "He is Risen," but afforded ample material for the discourse. Before beginning his sermon Mr. Budd heartily thanked his parishioners for their kindness to himself and family during the past year.

Mrs. Albert Higgins of Staten Island, with her little son, Albert, Jr., came to Esopus last week to care for her sister, Miss Florence Smith. As soon as her sister's condition will permit Mrs. Higgins intends taking her to her home by sea as she thinks the change will be beneficial.

Miss Estelle Hume is spending her Easter vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hume, in this village.

Andrew Eckert has returned from his vacation of several weeks and is once more at his work of caring for the poultry at St. Albans College.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin spent Easter Sunday at the home of Mr. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of Poughkeepsie. Upon their return to Esopus they were accompanied by Mr. Martin's sister, Miss Marjorie, who will remain as their guest for a few days.

Barburt Cole of Lawrenceport spent

Harlowe McLean came from Poughkeepsie Thursday evening last degree of initiation in the Otisland Tribe, No. 466, Improved Order of Red Men, at their lodge room in Elmore hall. Mr. McLean also came home on Saturday to spend Easter Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Phoebe McLean.

Leslie E. Mott of Newburgh spent Easter Sunday with his family at the home in this village.

Percy M. Mott met with a painful accident last week. While attempting to place a handle on a soldering iron the iron slipped, passing all the way through his hand. One of the strange features of the accident was the fact that the wound did not bleed but became so painful that Dr. G. W. Ross was summoned to dress it.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, April 5.—Willis DuBois of Kingston was with us Saturday. He also painted his boat for the summer.

Fred Randegger, our real estate agent, is quite a hunter as he has sold Charles Markle's blacksmith shop and lot to D. B. Osborn of Newburgh.

AUTO EQUIPPED WITH TIRELESS TIRES

The tire is puncture proof, of the resilient type and can be manufactured at about one-half the cost of the pneumatic tire. It is contrived in parts so that when one section becomes out of order it can be replaced by another part. These sections are carried in the ordinary auto tool box. The upkeep cost is about 80 per cent of that of the pneumatic tire.

Mr. Horne believes his invention will revolutionize the tire-making industry.

AVOID TROUBLE IN INNER TUBE

If Not in Good Shape Driver Is Liable to Encounter Many Unnecessary Delays.

MUCH TIME LOST REPAIRING

If It Has Been Carried for Any Length of Time as a Spare It Is Always Best to Pump It Up Before Putting in Casing.

A great deal of unnecessary trouble, delay and disappointment is occasioned by carelessness and haste in replacing damaged inner tubes after punctures or deflations from other causes—the tire failing to "hold up" on the tube put in, or holding up for a very short time only, and still another change of tube, with all its attendant labor, being required before a permanent repair is effected.

Pump Fairly Hard.
If the tube to be put in has been used before, if it has been repaired, and especially if it has been carried for some time as a spare, it is always best to pump it up before putting it in the casing to make sure that it is tight. It should be pumped fairly hard and the air applied to all parts of it to detect the "hiss" of any leak that may have developed.

The valve plunger should be screwed in tight and a little saliva applied to the air valve opening to see whether the valve is tight. In case deflation was due to a puncture, the hole in the casing, unless of very small size, may well be temporarily covered (pending a vulcanized repair) by cementing a small piece of rubberized fabric over it on the inside of the casing.

When deflation is due to an obscure cause (no puncture-producing object being found in any removed from the casing) there is always a possibility that a puncture has been produced by some sharp body which has been driven through the tread out of sight and projects enough on the inside of the casing (at least when the tire is under load) to prick the tube.

Detect Sharp Object.

In order to detect such an object the hand should be passed carefully over the whole inside surface of the casing, and if anything sharp is noticed it should be investigated and removed. In inserting the new tube care should be taken that it lies flat, without twists or folds, and that it is so placed that it cannot be caught and pinched by the bead of a clincher casing or by the edges of the flap (protector strip) of a quick detachable casing.

If the tube used has become stretched through use especial care should be taken that it is put in without folds. A little air in it is some safeguard against its being caught in any way.

STONE CURBS INJURE TIRES

Running Into or Driving Too Close to Concrete Will Shorten Life of Any Tire.

Rubber curbs may not be feasible, but what a lot of tire expense they would save. Running into a curb, running into a curb or driving too close to a curb, so that the tire scrapes along the concrete and damages the side walls of the tire, are three ways of shortening the life of your tires.

AVOID OVERHEATING ON LOW

Traction Can Be Prevented by Keeping Engine in the Lowest Possible Condition.

When it is necessary to employ the low gear for a considerable period it is possible to obviate the overheating that would ordinarily result by keeping the mixture in the lowest possible condition.

Open Streets For Motorists.

Assemblyman C. C. Smith, Republican, of Saratoga, has introduced in the legislature a bill designed to set the open season for motor cars from December 1st to April 1st, instead of November 1st to April 1st as at present.

PECULIAR CAUSE OF PUNCTURES IN TIRE

"When driving your car swerve as you come to the part of the roadway in front of a moving picture house," said an automobile owner in giving advice on how to avoid punctures. "In small towns it is especially advisable to follow such a course."

"Many times I have been bowling along a country road far from a settlement when, without any warning, one of my tires goes flat. Investigation would show a tack which had worked its way through and caused a puncture."

"At first I was inclined to blame the farmers for trying to get even with automobilists in general for the depredations committed by a few drivers who believe they are not having an enjoyable trip unless they take something in the nature of fruit or vegetables from the farms they pass. Then one day when passing through a village I saw a man sweeping the sidewalk before a picture theater, and the problem of the tacks was solved."

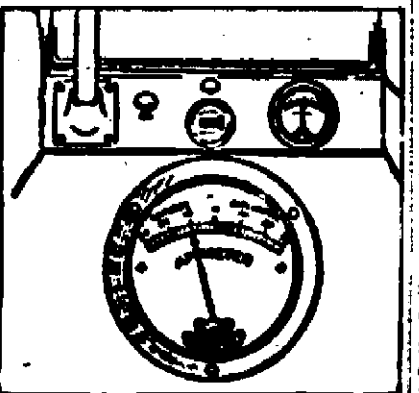

"Being a neat person, the sweeper not only cleaned the sidewalk, but continued his work with the broom until his gleanings reached almost to the middle of the roadway. In the mass of refuse were many tacks."

"The show man, it appeared, frequently changed the sign boards in front of his place, and he pulled down the old bills, tacks and all. The little sharp pointed tacks eventually found their way to the roadway among the sweepings, and later were discovered by unwary motorists probably several miles from the moving picture theater."

On wet pavements be careful to prevent skidding.

Wipe wheels should be carefully inspected at frequent intervals.

It frequently occurs in heavy rain that a little bottle of borax and glycerine mixed in equal parts will clear the glass of the windshield of rain drops and give clear vision ahead.

JUDGE SOLVES MYSTERY

Of Decrease in Population Of Kingston—Nothing Here To Eat.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle News of Monday contains the following:

Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morchauer has solved the reason why Kingston has gone behind in its population during the past ten years instead of showing a gain, as have nearly all the other cities along the Hudson. This was brought out in special term of supreme court Saturday when Galus C. Bolin and A. D. Lent as attorneys in a divorce suit agreed they could not get anything to eat there. "That possibly accounts for the decrease of 24 by the census returns," remarked Justice Morchauer.

The action was brought by Richard Bilson against Eliza Bilson, and Justice Morchauer remarked the case should be tried at Kingston as all the parties reside in Ulster county. As both attorneys stipulated the case should be tried here it will be heard within two weeks.

Mr. Bolin made a motion for attorney and counsel fees as he stated Bilson had never supported the children and she had never received any support from him, with the exception of the time he was in the army during the war and the government sent regular payments to the wife. Owing to the early date for the hearing the question of attorney and counsel fees was allowed to stand.

Wanted in Hudson.

Max Milnes of Hendon street, a chauffeur, 29 years old, was arrested on Monday afternoon by Sergeant Flannery on a warrant issued to Hudson charging Mr. Milnes with assault to the third degree. He will be turned over to the Hudson authorities.

Baptists Transform Saloon Into Temporary House of Worship.

Better Days Coming, However

The last sign here came down. What will take the place of the venerable? When signs will go up and when buildings will emerge the church council "think best," say the Baptists, and the church has a different meaning than the other does. The building, owned by the Baptist church, has been taken over by the city as a temporary place of worship. Such makeshifts as this, church leaders say, will not be necessary after the $100,000 Baptist campaign, April 25 of May 2.

The subject offers itself to an essayist; and his study would perhaps show a steady improvement during the last few decades in the artistic quality of many everyday things, coin, banknotes and advertisements, for example, that prepared the way for the artistry of the posters that played so large a part in the war, and now express itself in the design of the new postage stamps. Artists of distinction, in fact, have been called upon to design many of the new stamps, as during the war they designed many of the posters.—Christian Science Monitor.

His latest important opera score was that of "Isabell," for which MacCagni supplied the music. The opera was received with indifference, which discouraged Illica. There was considerable discussion about alterations made in the libretto by the composer and director, and Illica said the production gave an entirely wrong interpretation of his work.

Study of Ocean Currents.

Admiral Philimore, who has just died at the age of seventy-three, never shared a light, yet in the development of his career he came to be known more as a scientist than as a fighter. He had made a more careful study of the Gulf stream and of ocean currents generally than any other naval officer; and in this field of research he had few equals. Among these stands was the genius of Blenheim, who has also made a specialty of currents. Admiral Philimore's nautical knowledge was very largely in the world's stock of information. The Atlantic domination of driving waters gave particular value to this phase of oceanography, after the war.

Ian MacPherson.

Ian MacPherson, chief secretary for Ireland, has resigned his post, according to a report from London. Sir Ian's tenure of office has been a stormy one and his life has been threatened several times. When a Creative Genius.

Lord Buns, the famous poet and dramatist who recently died at his villa, Castel Agnello, at Milan, created the poem for more poems than any other writer for the last quarter century in Italy. His most famous poems were written in collaboration with Giuseppe Gioacchino, and are "Roberto," "Polina," "Marta" and "Adriana." He wrote "Iris" and "Benedicta" with collaboration, and has at least forty two famous poems to his credit. Many composers drew upon him for plot and lines, says the Everett Times.

Although he was fifty-eight years old when Italy entered the world war, Buns volunteered for service and was with the artillery for one year. He suffered a fall from which he did not

THE BUTTERFLY

By JACK LAWTON.

(Copyright, 1929, Western Newspaper Union)
The sun room of the great hotel was filled with guests upon a certain fall morning.
When the black-haired girl in daring but becoming crimson entered the room, there was, for a moment, a hush of expectancy in the murmured voices.
"Who," asked a certain fine-looking man, "is that?" He leaned forward eagerly as the crimson-clad figure passed the couch upon which he and a fair companion were seated.
The girl questioned raised supercilious eyebrows. "That," she replied, "is the grand dowager's new companion-secretary. Rather dashing for her position, don't you think? And at present the sensation of the hotel. Mrs. Mills-Forbes, it seems, accepted hastily this unknown young woman's services. Marietta May—charmingly unusual name, you see—presented herself in answer to Mrs. Forbes' advertisement with but one recommendation—that of the daughter of a former family of unquestioned standing. This formerly well-known young woman has been, since the death of her father and the unfortunate ending of his business career, in humble circumstances. In fact, no one knows, or perhaps no one has troubled themselves to ascertain, just what has become of Celia Sanders. But her word still imbues confidence. So Mrs. Mills-Forbes engaged Marietta May upon the strength of that recommendation, which may have been, for all we know, a forged letter. However, the companion-secretary is at present under suspicion of having stolen—not only a valuable necklace of her employer's but a wonderful string of pearls as well, belonging to another habitue of this hotel. The jewelry was found missing from the guest's room one evening, having been taken during a bathroom affair when Miss May was the only person remaining upon that floor of the building. A plainly marked handkerchief of hers, crumpled and lying in the very secret drawer from which the pearl necklace was taken, was the first clue to the culprit. As there was no actual proof as to the beautiful Marietta's guilt, it was decided not to put her upon her guard with an accusation, but to have her secretly watched.

His eyes followed the dark-eyed, attractive face of the girl suspected, regretfully as his chatty informant left him with a snicker. "Good morning! Beneath all the bravado of the companion's attire, her eyes seemed to gaze victoriously from her white face. "A pity!" John Calvert muttered, while for the first time he became aware of a small, brown-clad figure, seated upon a wide-cushioned hassock almost directly at his feet.
"You are sorry for Miss May?" she asked in a soft, soft tone. "You doubt the evidence of her guilt?"
"I am inclined to doubt it," Calvert replied. "Her face seems to express patient suffering, a sort of resigned martyrdom to misunderstanding."

Impulsively the little figure before him arose, the girl held out her hand. "It is true," she said breathlessly. "Marietta May is misunderstood, misrepresented. All her life has been that way. She is good. She tries to do her best, even that scarlet dress which she wears and which attracts so much wicked criticism, is worn to gratify old Mrs. Forbes' whim. She likes gay colors about and cannot wear them herself, but do you think that she troubles to explain this? No."

When he returned from behind that veiling the hotel was in commotion. "What is it?" he asked of the girl who had been his former informant, and she told him.
"Such a surprising document," she began. "You remember about the lost jewels and the companion-secretary's disappearance? Well, she has been proven innocent and the culprit—when do you think? No less a person than the great Mrs. Mills-Forbes herself. She possessed an immense treasure, it appears, for the pearl necklace of her friend, and after having stolen it, decided to show the beads to her own little May. For this reason she gave the law and pay this woman her necklace and left a handkerchief belonging to her companion lying in plain view to the drawer where her friend's necklace had been deposited. Isn't it wonderful?"

"Wonderful!" Calvert emphatically agreed.
"But this," he asked, "discovered the real culprit?"
The girl pointed across the room to where a small creature sat at work upon a golden hassock.
"This is the culprit of the crime," she said. "When Celia Sanders

WEBSTER CASE TESTIMONY BEGUN

Henry J. Weber, Who Was on Trolley Car When It Was Struck, Says Gates Were Not Down as Car Approached Within 20 Feet.

At the opening of supreme court this morning the testimony in the Webster case was begun and the entire morning session was practically taken up with the examination of James F. Loughran, who had made surveys and maps of the Broadway crossing and the West Shore tracks in the vicinity of Broadway, where the accident took place on March 4, 1918, when Grove Webster, Jr., was killed as a result of the collision between the trolley car and the West Shore train.

Water H. Gill, clerk of the surrogate's court, was the first witness called for the purpose of showing that Mrs. Webster had been appointed administratrix of the estate.

Mr. Loughran in detail explained the map which he had drawn and gave distances at which objects could be observed along the West Shore tracks from various distances from the crossing on Broadway. A model of the vicinity of the Broadway crossing was produced and by this various distances were noted and described. The model is constructed to scale and includes a model trolley car such as the one which was struck and demolished at the time of the accident.

Henry J. Weber, one of the men who was on the trolley car at the time it was struck was called and testified to what took place at the time. Mr. Weber was going to the West Shore station in order to take a train on the Ulster and Delaware railroad, testified that he took the trolley car at the corner of McEntee street and at the next corner Mr. Webster got on Mr. Webster taking a seat in the front end of the car on the right hand side.

After stopping at Pine Grove avenue the trolley car proceeded to the crossing without a stop. When near Morris & Company's packing house on Broadway, Mr. Weber testified that he looked out of the car window toward the West Shore crossing and the track was clear. He did not see the gates down.

When a short distance from the crossing Mr. Weber saw Mr. Webster get up and start to get out of the car at the same time Mr. Weber got on his feet and a moment later the car was struck by the locomotive.

Mr. Weber was thrown to the floor and when the car became stationary he arose and helped a woman from the car.

When he left the car he looked for his tools which had been on the rear platform. They were all there except a can which he later found in the gutter. As he left the car he saw a man lying near the gate standard on the roadway, bleeding from the mouth. He did not know who it was. There was another man lying further out in the street.

Mr. Weber testified that he did not hear any bell, whistle or other warning. The trolley car did not stop before crossing the tracks.

On cross-examination by Mr. Brinsford, Mr. Weber said that they were perhaps 20 feet from the West Shore tracks when he looked and saw no obstruction. He stated that the gates were not down at that time, and that the trolley car slackened speed some distance from the crossing but did not stop until it had been struck.

The action is brought against the West Shore and the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company to recover $100,000 for the death of Mr. Webster.

An adjournment was taken at 12:30 until 2 o'clock this afternoon when the case will be continued.

INTERCHURCH CO. CONFERENCE

In spite of the stormy weather, many delegates gathered at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church Monday to attend the Inter-Church Conference of the Inter-Church World Movement.

Rev. Dr. Wight, pastor of the Webb Memorial Church of Middletown, was the leader of the conference Monday, and after the devotional exercises, led by Rev. W. F. Stowe, he gave an illuminating statement of the Inter-Church World Movement and a comprehensive picture of present world conditions.

Following him came W. L. Hatch, who spoke on the united financial campaign, and answered many questions in regard to this part of the movement.

In the afternoon came the presentation of the surveys. These surveys are one of the important features of the Inter-Church World Movement. They are real surveys, a scientific investigation having been made of the actual conditions and needs of the world, especially as regards churches, missions, schools, hospitals and other religious and social institutions.

The foreign survey was given by Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady. The home survey was given by the Rev. Dr. Wight. The Rev. Dr. Wemple, of Saugerties, then presented the evangelistic program, and after other matters had been disposed of, the afternoon session adjourned.

In the evening brief addresses were made by Mrs. Ferguson of Syracuse and by Rev. Dr. Cady. Then Dr. Wight of Middletown gave the composite survey lantern slide address, illustrating many of the facts of the surveys by stereopticon pictures and charts.

The Inter-Church financial campaign, which combines the campaigns of the different denominations, takes place in the week of April 25-May 2. Then the attempt will be made to raise the large budget for religious and social uplift in every part of the world.

NEED EVIDENCE IN TROLLEY MATTER

The call for the Chamber of Commerce membership meeting for consideration of the trolley situation, which is to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, grew out of the matter of the proposed abandonment of certain tracks on Washington avenue.

This matter is, however, of necessity related to all the factors involved in the future of trolley service in the city of Kingston. The discussion at this meeting is accordingly of great importance with respect to the development of the city for which efficient trolley service is a prime requisite.

The issues involved in the discussion will undoubtedly be determined in part by the nature of the public body that has final jurisdiction with respect to trolley matters, i. e., the Public Service Commission.

The Public Service Commission is a quasi-judicial body and determines issues on the basis of evidence presented to it and if its own investigation. It is not largely influenced as are legislative bodies by the expression of opinion unless that expression of opinion is accompanied by evidence.

The great service and value of meetings such as that of the Chamber of Commerce is to clarify issues and bring out the various considerations involved.

LITTLE INTEREST IN PRIMARIES

Primary election day opened this morning with snow squalls reminding old timers of the weather usually had in the days of the village and town elections that were held in the spring of the year, until about twenty years ago when the time was changed until November.

There seemed to be almost no interest in today's election as there were no contests and comparatively few enrolled voters cast their ballots. The polling places close at 9 p. m.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MARY GILMAN DOWNEY

VISITOR AT PARTY.

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "every one has been doing the honors lately but the brownies. We haven't had any sort of a party or entertainment for goodness knows how long."

"How about it, girls and boys, brownies and elves, old Mr. Giant and Witty Witch? How about it, every one? Is everyone ready for another party?"

"Are we?" they all asked in such a tone that Billie Brownie didn't have to ask the second time. "Well, that's nice, isn't it?" he asked his brother Bennie.

"I should just my so," answered Bennie.

"Well, everyone, tell everyone else, and all come yourselves to our party which will be held this very afternoon. And as it's late in the morning, everyone must leave and hurry away from here except the brownies, for we must be making preparations for our entertainment."

They all chuckled and laughed and all went their way, many of them to ask others who were not around.

Billie Brownie and Bennie Brownie set to work aided by all the other brownies. What a time they had, what a time! For they had such a little while in which to get ready that they fell over each other and hurried, hurried about.

But they were ready when afternoon came. They had made a beautiful snow fort. There were large and lovely rooms with snow sofas and snow cushions in which the ladies were supposed to take off their capes and bonnets. If they wanted to take them off. Of course no one did, but it was to make the snow fort especially lovely, for it wasn't only a snow fort. Attached to the fort with a little passage made in a great bank of snow there was a lovely house.

The fort was made like all forts but inside along with a number of soft snow-balls ready for a snow-ball fight to finish the afternoon's entertainment, there were long snow tables upon which were great dishes filled with goodies to eat and goodies to drink.

They hadn't known just how they could arrange to keep things hot on cold snow! So Billie Brownie had sent a very small brother of his to see the Fairy Queen.

He had asked her if she would come for a moment and wave her magic wand so such a thing could be.

So everything was settled and ready when all the guests arrived.

Billie Brownie and Bennie Brownie had many number of plans and schemes arranged. There were games and there were jokes and there were puzzles and there were prizes for everything. Little prizes made out of snow!

Of course it was more for the idea of having prizes than anything else for they were all simple, but they were most beautifully made and everyone loved them.

At last, just before it was time for the party to be over, as the guests had all eaten of the delicious meal which had been prepared, along came a lovely creature wearing a white mantle of snow which was covered with jewels she had been given by the jewellers Sun and Snow.

At first they didn't recognize her. And then all at once, everyone shouted, "Why, it's the Fairy Wondrous Secrets!"

"The very name," she answered.

You see, Fairy Wondrous Secrets is very busy all the time, and the fairies she sees most of are the fairies who have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up. And when they have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up, they are the fairies who have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up.

"I'm taking a trip," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "taking out what children want and need, and then I'm going back and tell the fairies who pick up the secrets in the little baskets so they can be sent around with the aid of the Dreamland King."

"I happened to hear you were having a party and so I thought I'd drop in."

"She was followed by clouds and clouds."

"And," she said, when she was hurrying off, after shaking them for the wonderful time, "I'm going to tell the fairies to pick up many secrets which tell that one of the best things in the world is to be contented and that by others."

NEED EVIDENCE IN TROLLEY MATTER

The call for the Chamber of Commerce membership meeting for consideration of the trolley situation, which is to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, grew out of the matter of the proposed abandonment of certain tracks on Washington avenue.

This matter is, however, of necessity related to all the factors involved in the future of trolley service in the city of Kingston. The discussion at this meeting is accordingly of great importance with respect to the development of the city for which efficient trolley service is a prime requisite.

The issues involved in the discussion will undoubtedly be determined in part by the nature of the public body that has final jurisdiction with respect to trolley matters, i. e., the Public Service Commission.

The Public Service Commission is a quasi-judicial body and determines issues on the basis of evidence presented to it and if its own investigation. It is not largely influenced as are legislative bodies by the expression of opinion unless that expression of opinion is accompanied by evidence.

The great service and value of meetings such as that of the Chamber of Commerce is to clarify issues and bring out the various considerations involved.

LITTLE INTEREST IN PRIMARIES

Primary election day opened this morning with snow squalls reminding old timers of the weather usually had in the days of the village and town elections that were held in the spring of the year, until about twenty years ago when the time was changed until November.

There seemed to be almost no interest in today's election as there were no contests and comparatively few enrolled voters cast their ballots. The polling places close at 9 p. m.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

MARY GILMAN DOWNEY

VISITOR AT PARTY.

"Well," said Billie Brownie, "every one has been doing the honors lately but the brownies. We haven't had any sort of a party or entertainment for goodness knows how long."

"How about it, girls and boys, brownies and elves, old Mr. Giant and Witty Witch? How about it, every one? Is everyone ready for another party?"

"Are we?" they all asked in such a tone that Billie Brownie didn't have to ask the second time. "Well, that's nice, isn't it?" he asked his brother Bennie.

"I should just my so," answered Bennie.

"Well, everyone, tell everyone else, and all come yourselves to our party which will be held this very afternoon. And as it's late in the morning, everyone must leave and hurry away from here except the brownies, for we must be making preparations for our entertainment."

They all chuckled and laughed and all went their way, many of them to ask others who were not around.

Billie Brownie and Bennie Brownie set to work aided by all the other brownies. What a time they had, what a time! For they had such a little while in which to get ready that they fell over each other and hurried, hurried about.

But they were ready when afternoon came. They had made a beautiful snow fort. There were large and lovely rooms with snow sofas and snow cushions in which the ladies were supposed to take off their capes and bonnets. If they wanted to take them off. Of course no one did, but it was to make the snow fort especially lovely, for it wasn't only a snow fort. Attached to the fort with a little passage made in a great bank of snow there was a lovely house.

The fort was made like all forts but inside along with a number of soft snow-balls ready for a snow-ball fight to finish the afternoon's entertainment, there were long snow tables upon which were great dishes filled with goodies to eat and goodies to drink.

They hadn't known just how they could arrange to keep things hot on cold snow! So Billie Brownie had sent a very small brother of his to see the Fairy Queen.

He had asked her if she would come for a moment and wave her magic wand so such a thing could be.

So everything was settled and ready when all the guests arrived.

Billie Brownie and Bennie Brownie had many number of plans and schemes arranged. There were games and there were jokes and there were puzzles and there were prizes for everything. Little prizes made out of snow!

Of course it was more for the idea of having prizes than anything else for they were all simple, but they were most beautifully made and everyone loved them.

At last, just before it was time for the party to be over, as the guests had all eaten of the delicious meal which had been prepared, along came a lovely creature wearing a white mantle of snow which was covered with jewels she had been given by the jewellers Sun and Snow.

At first they didn't recognize her. And then all at once, everyone shouted, "Why, it's the Fairy Wondrous Secrets!"

"The very name," she answered.

You see, Fairy Wondrous Secrets is very busy all the time, and the fairies she sees most of are the fairies who have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up. And when they have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up, they are the fairies who have their home far down where the pages of secrets are done up.

"I'm taking a trip," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "taking out what children want and need, and then I'm going back and tell the fairies who pick up the secrets in the little baskets so they can be sent around with the aid of the Dreamland King."

"I happened to hear you were having a party and so I thought I'd drop in."

"She was followed by clouds and clouds."

"And," she said, when she was hurrying off, after shaking them for the wonderful time, "I'm going to tell the fairies to pick up many secrets which tell that one of the best things in the world is to be contented and that by others."

ACTION SOON ON AUTO LEGISLATION

Statewide Operators' License Law Expected to Pass This Week—Status of Other Bills to Prevent Theft and Other Crimes.

Automobile legislation, designed to obtain greater safety both for the public and the automobilist, and to prevent thefts, is expected to receive favorable action from the New York legislature this week.

The New York State Automobile Association has sponsored the introduction of several measures drafted to give a greater relief to the pedestrian and the motorist. The operators' license law, introduced at the suggestion of the association, having in its statewide scope a license fee regulation of 50 cents, is expected to pass.

A measure pending in both houses requires the registration of the transfer or resale of all cars. The purpose of the bill is to thwart all attempts at automobile thefts. The bill is in the internal affairs committee, however, and must come out of assembly rules to receive the lower house's consideration.

Other bills and their position in the legislative files are: Assemblyman Damico. Requiring the licensing of automobile repairmen at fees of $25, the license to be revoked on conviction of crime or willful injury to an automobile. Second reading.

Senator Kaplan. To bring private chauffeurs under the workmen's compensation law in committee. Senators Gibbs and Towner. Requiring garages to keep records of cars stored with them, and to report to police whenever a manufacturer's mark has been altered or removed. In committee.

Senator Velterson, Senator Towner. To remove snow from state and county highways between cities. In committee.

Assemblyman Betts. Making it a misdemeanor to transfer in an automobile any person to a house of ill fame. In committee.

Senator Knight. Increasing from $2 to $10 the additional fees on omnibuses. Passed in senate and now in assembly.

Senator Lusk. Providing that cars used in transferring school children shall not be classified as omnibuses. Passed in senate. Now in assembly.

NEAR EAST RELIEF WORKERS NAMED

Started Out This Morning After Enthusiastic Dinner at Y. M. C. A. Monday Evening at Which Lavery and Mayor Made Eloquent Pleas—Charchian Pledges $100 at Meeting.

At 6 o'clock Monday evening, in the Young Men's Christian Association, every captain and every member of the eleven teams appointed by Chairman Newton H. Fessenden, of the Kingston Near East committee, were present as dinner guests of the National Near East Relief. The Y. M. C. A. chief had prepared a special and sumptuous repast for the workers. Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis asked divine blessing and said grace. After coffee had been served, Chairman Fessenden called the assemblage to order and explained in detail the object of the meeting, what he expected of the captains, what he hoped each team worker could do and would do, then giving a description of similar appeals in other cities, the needs and the present conditions of the starving and helpless Armenians, the part they played in the great world war, also touching briefly upon the history and traditions of Armenia in Biblical times.

He then introduced James A. Lavery, of the publicity staff of the Near East Relief from Poughkeepsie headquarters. Mr. Lavery gave a vivid and graphic picture of present day conditions in the Near East. By request, he recited the poem: "Four Hundred Thousand Children," concluding with an eloquent and pathetic peroration, pleading for the best efforts of the workers in this appeal to help maintain Kingston's glorious reputation in the past for liberality and generosity whenever they were called upon in a worthy crisis.

Mayor Palmer Canfield was the last speaker. His Honor held the closest attention of those present from the very start. In fact, probably never in all his experience as Kingston's chief executive did Mayor Canfield deliver an address that so swayed those who listened to that of Monday evening. His peroration was a beautiful word picture, filled with portrayals of the wonderful returns which individual investments of generosity would bring to those who helped in the Near East who deserved to be helped but could not help themselves.

Chairman Fessenden followed the mayor with an admonition and an appeal for every worker to try and turn in a one hundred per cent result card at the meeting of the captains and team workers in the Y. M. C. A. next Friday evening. Benjamin M. Charchian, a prominent Armenian, stepped forward and signed a pledge card for one hundred dollars. He assured Chairman Fessenden that every Armenian in the city of Kingston, in the state of New York and in the whole United States was more grateful than words could express for the wonderful work of charity and relief that the Near East is doing for the suffering and starving peoples in the Bible lands. He intimated that his example would be followed by many other Armenians in this city.

If the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening was an augury, then the success of the Kingston appeal for the Near East Relief is assured. The following are the captains and team workers appointed by Chairman Fessenden and who started out this morning upon their errand of charity and mercy:

Tangut Chinese Lacemaking.

The art of lacemaking was first taught in the Chinese of the Chien dynasty by foreign missionaries about twenty-five years ago. They believed that by teaching lacemaking the women and girls would find profitable employment within their own homes, and the subsequent spread of the industry has fully justified their efforts. Although first taught in Chien, Old Hainan was the first district in which lace was extensively made.

The Pattern.

The pattern is a member of the great family and the "net" is more accurately described as a grid. It is given form and in many tropical and sub-tropical lands, a long warm season being necessary for its maturity. It grows above ground, then the stems bend downwards, the young and old leaves and their patterned net are ever attached to the stem. The material for them, are from the stems.
